

Planning and Control

Planning and control are two important functions in a manager's job. Before work can even begin, managers need to plan the work. When work is taking place, managers also need to control the work effectively.

MODAPTS® can help managers with both the functions of planning and control. Use of MODAPTS® can assist managers with planning for effective work and improving existing work processes. Use of MODAPTS® can also help managers with controlling differences among workers while applying basic work principles for expectations of reasonable work.
